To Whom it May Concern:

I coordinate programs for the Edwin A. Bemis Public Library in Littleton, Colorado and would like to recommend Calvin Standing Bear as an outstanding performer who attracted a large and enthusiastic audience at our library. Calvin sang and played the flute for a celebration of Native American Heritage Month. He also spoke about Native American traditions and folk stories. He is skilled at sharing his culture through the art of music and storytelling. The audience included people of all ages and everyone enjoyed the program. We received many positive comments following the performance and a number of people purchased Calvin's CD. His original song, Fly Eagle Fly, which he performed at the library, was very moving and is one that I will never forget.

Sincerely,
